

Dig Dinos?

Join CSC Naturalist Bruce Beerbower and Dr. John Foster, chief paleontologist at the Museum of Western Colorado, for a once-in-a-lifetime experience, June 24 – 30, 2012.

Be a paleontologist for a week, while exploring sites of the Great American West including Colorado National Monuments with canyons, buttes and mesas, Dead Horse Canyon and Arches National Park in Utah.

Participants will dig for early horses and other mammals in Colorado then travel to Utah to study dinosaur tracks, work at a dinosaur dig site and view Native American Rock Art. The week will end with a rafting trip on the Colorado River and work in a paleontology lab.

This trip is recommended for adults and youth (ages 12 and up with guardian) and is limited to 11 participants.

Cost: $2,998 CSC members
$3,200 nonmembers

Cost includes naturalist guide service, airfare at current prices,* ground transportation, six nights motel lodging, five field lunches, three breakfasts, one dinner, and park/museum admission fees.

Registration deadline: April 4. Deposit due upon registration, balance is due May 4.

\ If airfare increases, that amount will be added to participants' fees.*

Contact Bruce Beerbower today for daily schedule and additional details:
(828) 322-8169 ext. 308,
or naturalist@catawbasience.org

DINOSAUR DIG
June 24 – 30